New York Cares Spring Day

Parks and community gardens make up over 15 percent of New York City's land use, touching all 5 boroughs and providing millions of New Yorkers with access to the outdoors. These public spaces include opportunities for New Yorkers to exercise, explore nature, grow fruits and vegetables, and connect with their communities.

Each spring, New York Cares with the assistance of volunteers, work together to make sure that these parks and community gardens are safe, clean, and nurturing places for residents to go each day.

On Saturday, April 12, 2014, TMM participated in the NY Cares Spring Day at Marcus Garvey Park in Harlem, New York. TMM volunteers spent the day assisting with beautifying the park which included the removal of dead plant material, spreading mulch and replacing new plants.
